To this day, it is not known who wrote "Go Tell it on the Mountain," but it originated as a spiritual sung by African American slaves. It was made popular in the late 1800s by John Wesley Work, Jr. and his group the Jubilee Singers. Go tell it on the mountain and everywhere!

May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, so that by the power of the Holy Spirit you may abound in hope.- Romans 15:13
